History of the National Volunteer Outreach Network, Inc.

During the Country Women's Council USA (CWC) Annual Meeting and the Associated Country Women of the World (ACWW) USA Area Meeting in September 1994, members from several states met. This group agreed there was a need for a connection with United States of America societies with membership in ACWW.

These members, along with others, met again at the CWC/ACWW meeting in 1995 and established the National Volunteer Outreach Network (NVON). Officers (Executive Committee) were elected to assume their positions on January 1, 1996. Decisions made at that meeting included: The Executive Committee will appoint an Advisor. The Presidents of member states and the Executive Committee will complete "The Board". A set-up fee of $50 will be paid by each charter member state. Thereafter, the annual member organization fee shall be established at the annual meeting. Individual memberships will be available. The thought was to pattern NVON dues similar to ACWW.

With input from those present, and following approval of charter member organizations, Phyllis Howard (IN) prepared Bylaws and applied for Articles of Incorporation status in Indiana. NVON was issued a Certificate of Incorporation and granted Not for Profit status in Indiana on January 25, 1996.

Charter member societies: Arkansas Extension Homemakers Council, Illinois Association for Home and Community Education, Indiana Extension Homemakers Association, Kentucky Extension Homemakers Association, South Carolina Family and Community Leaders, West Virginia Community Educational Outreach Service, and Wisconsin Association for Home and Community Education.

Bylaws were sent to the ACWW office with a letter of request for membership which was granted at their executive meeting of March 26, 1996. A letter dated May 1, 1996 stated NVON had been accepted as an ACWW III member and NVON was assigned a membership number of 093476. Following notification of this acceptance, dues were sent to ACWW and CWC. This action placed the NVON President on the CWC Board.

During the September 22, 1996 meeting in Tampa, Florida, the following NVON officers were officially installed by the ACWW USA Area President, Melba McIntosh: President, Louise Nichols (IN); Vice President, Mary Nell Fairey (SC); Secretary/Treasurer, Jean Davis (KY); Advisor, Betty Buff (SC). Approximate membership in the seven NVON charter member states was reported as 118,000. Standing rules were adopted. All states were to continue to work on individual projects in progress and work together on a literacy project. At least one meeting of NVON is to be held annually. Member states began exchanging successful programs.

In August 1997 a mini-conference was held with each member state invited to send up to four (4) people. Over twenty attended the two-day meeting in Warsaw, Indiana. Ways of networking and other items of business were discussed.

During the 1997 NVON Annual Meeting the membership was reported as approximately 106,640 in seven member states. Business presented and agreed were the following items:

1. The name would be said by using the initials of N.V.O.N.

2. The name and call letters will be registered with the United States Patent and Trademark Office (US PTO).
3. A logo will be created to represent NVON.
4. Individual Member dues will be paid in three-year increments of $15.
5. The organizational fee will become $100 per member state in 1999.
6. Officers shall assume duties on January 1 following the year they are elected.
7. South Carolina FCL will publish the 1998 NVON newsletter at their expense.
8. Joan McEachern (IL) was elected as the President Elect.
9. Louise Nichols (IN) was chosen to fill the position of CWC Vice Chairman effective January 1, 1999.

The 22nd ACWW Triennial Conference, April 1-7, 1998 in Pretoria, Southern Africa was attended by representatives of all NVON member states.

During the 1998 NVON Annual Meeting the Executive Committee was appointed as the Budget Committee. 1999-2001 officers were elected, and with an advisor, were installed. A recommendation that a NVON annual conference be held as a separate meeting in a central location was discussed.

The First NVON Annual Conference was held August 3-5, 1999 at Ramada Plaza Hotel in Columbus, Indiana with the theme “Exploring New Horizons”. Hostesses for the conference were Louise Nichols (IN) and Joan McEachern (IL). Attendance included one hundred thirty-three members representing all NVON member states. Displays of successful projects/programs were well received. A silent auction was held to benefit ACWW Pennies for Friendship fund. Proceeds from conference of $1,026.98 were deposited in the NVON account. The Wisconsin AHCE published the NVON newsletter in 1999 at their expense.

The mark NVON was registered with the United States Patent and Trademark Office (US PTO) June 22, 1999 and the mark National Volunteer Network was registered September 21, 1999.

A business meeting was held on October 10, 1999 at Grand Hotel on Mackinaw Island, Michigan. The ACWW World President attended the meeting and was presented a check in the amount of $1006 realized from the 1999 NVON Annual Conference silent auction. The NVON logo, designed by Joan McEachern (IL), was selected from three submitted. A resolution on Genetic Engineering was accepted to be sent to ACWW for presentation at the 2001 Triennial Conference. In order to have a common focus throughout the membership the decision was made to select a two-year Project in Common. “Threads for Hope”, the collection of embroidery thread to send to Southern Africa was selected as the Project in Common.

The Second NVON Annual Conference was held August 4-6, 2000 at Galt House Hotel in Louisville, Kentucky with the theme of “National Volunteer in Action”. One hundred sixty-eight attending. For the first time, the annual business meeting was held during the conference. Amended bylaws and standing rules were accepted as presented. The idea that NVON member states exchange programs resulted in the establishment of a “NVON Program Box”. Lapel pins were produced as the organization’s pin April 2000. <http://www.nvon.org> became the organization’s web address August 2000.

During the ACWW Triennial Conference in June 2001 in Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, Joan McEachern (IL) was the NVON voting delegate, Betty Buff (SC) was the “Rapporteur” for Pre and Post Council Meetings. Louise Nichols (IN) was elected as ACWW Treasurer, and Sandra Broderick-Allen (IL) was elected as Chairman of the ACWW United Nations Committee.

The Third NVON Annual Conference was held in Parkersburg, West Virginia July 17-19, 2001 with the theme “Almost Heaven in Wild, Wonderful West Virginia”. Two hundred sixteen in attendance. A NVON mission statement was debated, agreed, and accepted. All fees paid by NVON Individual Members will be placed in the newsletter expense fund. Bylaws received a major revision to expand the purpose of NVON, to separate the duties of the Secretary and Treasurer, and give the Executive Committee a vote at board and annual business meetings along with two accredited delegates from each member state. Judy Bender (WI) was elected as NVON's representative to fill the position of Treasurer on the CWC Board. “Clothe A Child” was accepted as the 2002-2003 NVON Project in Common to send necessities to children on Native American Indian Reservations. “Threads for Hope” NVON Project in Common continues for another year. Over $1,000 was realized by the silent auction for the benefit of ACWW Pennies for Friendship fund. NVON members met during the CWC meeting in 2001 and there was discussion of developing a handbook and appointing an Editor. Colors in the NVON logo were determined, and an educational display by state members will be a feature at each annual conference.

The Fourth NVON Annual Conference July 18-20, 2002 in Springfield, Illinois with the theme “Visions for the Future”. Over one hundred fifty attended. During the Opening Session member state presidents and voting delegates were introduced as they posted their state flags followed by introduction of the Executive Committee. A NVON gavel was presented to the organization by Joan McEachern (IL). The NVON logo in color was used for the first time on the printed program. A podium cloth with the logo in color and chair back covers for voting delegates was in place for the business meeting. Ten thousand (10,000) brochures were available for distribution. Roll call was answered with number of members by each state president and resulted in total NVON membership being recorded as 81,415. An Editor, Beverly Earnhart (IN) was appointed as a non-voting member of The Board. The first NVON Budget was presented and accepted. A silent auction and collection netted over $1,000 for ACWW Pennies for Friendship fund. A 2004-2005 NVON Project in Common, “DARE to be Healthy” – Develop Awareness & Responsibility through Education, with an objective of informing women on health issues was presented and accepted.

A request was made of the Director of Special Collections at Winthrop University, Rock Hill, South Carolina that historical documents of the National Volunteer Outreach Network, Inc. be deposited in Dacus Library. This request was granted.

During the latter part of 2002 a committee that had been appointed to review NVON Bylaws met in South Carolina. Their mandate was to revise the NVON Bylaws into a simple form, develop in-depth NVON Policy Guidelines with a conference planner, and have these documents ready for presentation during the 2003 NVON Annual Conference.

The Fifth NVON Annual Conference was held July 22-24, 2003 in Janesville, Wisconsin with the theme ‘Visions for the Future “Dreams Really Can Come True.”’ One hundred eighty-three attending. All conference information, including the registration form was available on the NVON website. NVON member states reported a total of 76,696 members. The revised governing documents were accepted unanimously. The 2004 budget included the conference registration for the four elected officers. A ballot vote by attendees resulted in NVON VISION chosen as the name for the newsletter. A Financial Review Committee will review books of the Treasurer each year during conference. The Silent Auction and a collection resulted in $1,801.23 for ACWW Pennies for Friendship fund. The collected embroidery threads continue to be sent to South Africa. Some are now being sent to other ACWW areas to be used in teaching the art of embroidery.

All NVON member states had voting delegates in attendance at the 24th Associated Country Women of the World Triennial Conference in Hobart, Tasmania, Australia. Betty Buff (SC) was the Returning Officer for Elections and the voting delegate for NVON. Louise Nichols (IN) was elected to a second term as ACWW Treasurer. An invitation was issued by the USA delegation to host the 2010 ACWW Triennial Conference and accepted.

The Sixth NVON Annual Conference was held July 15-17, 2004 in North Charleston, South Carolina with the theme 'Visions for the Future 'Building on the Past.'" One hundred and seventy-seven attended. Total membership was recorded as 74,445. The 2005 budget included the VISION Editor's conference registration. The first NVON Handbook was distributed and the decision made that the handbook would be printed every three years during the year of President Elect. The Program Box was renamed The Program Library. $500 from the designated Project Fund was given to Project Open Heart for medical supplies. The silent auction and a collection resulted in $1,363.60 being sent to ACWW Pennies for Friendship fund.

The Seventh NVON Annual Conference was held July 12-14, 2005 in Indianapolis, Indiana with the theme 'A Strong Foundation-Building from Within "Step by Step.'" Two hundred and nine in attendance. Total NVON membership was recorded as 71,356. The mark NVON was renewed with the United States Patent and Trademark Office (US PTO) February 8, 2005 and the mark National Volunteer Network was renewed March 21, 2005. NVON was organized exclusively for charitable and educational purposes. Member organizations truly work together to promote communication, education, and volunteerism for all people.

The purpose/objectives/aims of the National Volunteer Outreach Network have certainly been enhanced during the years since 1995. The “goal posts” have been moved into the future and the ambition of reaching outward has been enhanced many folds. The comradery among members from the nine NVON member states has been enhanced many times over, and close companionship and friendship of those in leadership roles within NVON has been intensified by the milestones that have been achieved.

The Associated Country Women of the World

The Associated Country Women of the World was organized in 1930 and is a non-political, non-sectarian international organization of over nine million members in women's societies in seventy-one countries. It works to improve standards of living for all women and their families through worldwide projects. ACWW works with the United Nations on a consultative basis as a non-governmental organization. NVON applied for ACWW membership and was accepted in 1996.

Country Women's Council of the United States of America

The Country Women's Council USA is a coordinating council, composed of Associated Country Women of the World member societies in the United States of America. The CWC does not formulate policy. Its programs and activities are devoted to carrying out policies of ACWW.

Upon acceptance as a Category III member society of ACWW in 1996, and with payment of dues, NVON became a member of CWC. The NVON President, or designee, is a member of the CWC Board.

CWC was approved for ACWW Category III membership during the October 23-25, 2002 meeting of the ACWW Executive Committee. CWC submitted a resolution on Agriculture Biotechnology that was approved and went forward to be considered at the March 2004 ACWW Triennial Conference where it was amended and approved.
